Carter Steps Into Campaigns

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is stepping into a New York gubernatorial campaign today in which two inevitables — death and taxes — have been central issues.

He then moves on to campaign for a female governor his mother once thought of — before they met — as "a great big fat person, sort of sweaty."

To end the day, he stops at that old Democratic Party standby, a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. But the dinner guests will feast on a not-so-traditional soybean casserole.

Today's trip to New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maine was the last in a series of one-day campaign trips on behalf of Democratic candidates. Carter has planned a two-day, cross-country venture next week, winding up a 17-day stretch in which he will have visited 13 states.

His first stop today was for a rally at the Buffalo International Airport in support of New York Gov. Hugh Carey, who has spent much of his campaign defending his two vetoes of legislation that would have restored the death penalty in New York. Carey also has stressed his successful efforts to roll back taxes imposed under Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Political observers say Carey and his Republican opponent, former state Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, are running neck-and-neck.

From Buffalo, Carter was flying to Hartford for two speeches on behalf of Democratic Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

According to a Hartford Courant poll released Oct. 15, Mrs. Grasso is leading her Republican opponent, Rep. Ronald A. Sarasin, by a 50-41 margin, with 9 percent of those polled undecided.

The president's mother, Lillian Carter, was campaigning for Mrs. Grasso in Manchester Conn., Oct. 9 when she said: "Before I met Ella, I thought she was going to be a great big fat person, sort of sweaty. You've seen 'em. But she's just the opposite — charming, not fat, not sweaty."

The president planned two speeches in Lynn, Mass., as part of his campaign for Rep. Paul Tsongas, trying to unseat Republican Sen. Edward Brooke, and for Edward J. King, the former executive director of the Massachusetts Port Authority, running for governor against a more liberal Republican, state House Minority Leader Francis W. Hatch Jr.

Brooke, seeking election to a third term, has seen his campaign sometimes upstaged by disclosures about his personal finances stemming from a divorce settlement. Questions have been raised about whether he accurately reported loans he may have received.

A poll released this week in The Boston Herald-American showed Tsongas leading Brooke 48 percent to 40 percent.

The last stop for Carter today was Portland, Maine, where the vegetarian dinner, highlighted by soy-sage stroganoff, was to be a big change from the "rubber chicken circuit" of political campaign fame.

Kahn Names Inflation Foe

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confronted with a fresh surge of higher prices, the nation's new chief inflation fighter has named his foe: every American's desire for economic improvement "even though the sum total of these demands adds up to more than society can supply."

Talking to reporters on his first day on the job, Alfred E. Kahn said Friday he intends to investigate "all sources of inflation" rather than simply acting as chief policeman for President Carter's voluntary wage and price guidelines. And he said he intends to resist "the pressures to act now and think later."

Earlier in the day, Kahn was greeted with news that inflation gave consumers their worst pounding in three months in September as costs rose 0.8 percent and pushed the index of retail prices to almost double what it was 11 years ago.

The latest Labor Department figures put the rate of inflation so far this year — computed on an annual basis — at 9.6 percent.

In other economic developments Friday:

— The Labor Department released a study showing major labor contracts so far this year call for first-year wage and cost-of-living increases of more than 8 percent — above 10 percent if fringe benefits are included — compared to the 7 percent limit proposed Tuesday by Carter for wages, cost-of-living adjustments and fringe benefits. Carter wants to hold price increases to about 5.75 percent.

— The housing industry predicted new construction should drop about 14 percent next year because of soaring interest rates — a decline to 1.68 million new houses and apartment buildings from 1.98 million this year.

— Value of the dollar fell in comparison to most foreign currencies on New York money markets after a day of mixed results abroad in which it recovered a bit against the Japanese yen and French franc but hit a new low against the German mark.

Parks Report Good Season

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A late spring and early school openings may have slowed the tourist business for private firms this year, but it didn't affect the state parks.

Representatives of private businesses catering to tourists said Friday that the 10-13 percent annual growth expected in the industry just wasn't there this season.

"We Kentuckians are just not used to standing still in tourism for any reason," said Nita Ewing, president of the Kentucky Marina Association, "and it is disappointing not to be able to have a significant increase from one year to the next."

State park officials, however, say that visiting and spending at park lodges, restaurants, gift shops, campgrounds and marinas are expected to top 1977 figures when reports and audits are completed.

A state official said the amount of state taxes that tourism generates has been increasing steadily for the past five years. It currently brings in about $98 million a year.

"Income for the private operator of tourism-related businesses is expected to be higher than it was last year — but because of inflation," said Mrs. Ewing. "If the money volume wasn't higher, we definitely would have had a slump."

Sykes Named Winner In Regional Contest

Shea Sykes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Sykes, has been named a silver award winner in regional competition for the FFA Crop Production Proficiency Award.

Sykes became eligible for the regional runoff when he won the $100 state FFA Crop Production Award sponsored by Massey-Ferguson, Inc., of Des Moines, Iowa, as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Sykes

The award is one of 22 proficiency awards presented annually at local, state, regional and national levels to recognize FFA members for achievements in activities leading to careers in agriculture.

Sykes' entry being the state winner from Kentucky, was in competition with eleven other states in the central region of the United States.

He is a past president of the Calloway County Chapter of FFA and past vice-president of the Purchase Region of FFA. He was also selected as Regional Star Farmer in 1977, and was a member of the state winning tobacco grading team from Calloway for two years.

Don't Forget To Set Clocks Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Remember that hour you lost to Daylight Saving Time last spring? Sunday's the 25-hour day you get it back.

Daylight Saving Time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday. At that moment Standard Time returns and the hour automatically reverts to 1 a.m.

Your clocks won't do it automatically, though, so you can either turn them back an hour right then or do like most Americans and turn clocks and watches back an hour when you go to bed Saturday night. Otherwise you'll be an hour early for whatever you've got planned for Sunday morning.

GOP Regulars Respond To Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fistful of Republican Party regulars used national television Friday night to condemn Carter administration economic programs, with party Chairman Bill Brock calling the president's policies little more than a "quick fix."

In introducing the taped broadcast, Brock said, "Inflation isn't a partisan problem." But he joined former President Gerald R. Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan in labeling the current Congress and Carter as big-spending Democrats.

Brock contended the $18.7 billion tax bill President Carter has promised to sign isn't enough to overcome the nation's economic woes.

"While we believe tax cuts can restore economic growth, to stop inflation you must reduce federal spending," Brock said.

Ford and Reagan both blamed the 20-month-old Carter administration for the current 10 percent inflation rate calculated on an annual basis.

"The American people are getting resentful," Ford said, noting the inflation rate had more than doubled since he left office.

James Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget under Ford, complained about spending by the gigantic Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the possible cost of the new Energy Department.

"It's too easy to vote for more money rather than bite that bullet," Lynn said of the Democrat-dominated Congress.

The Republicans were using time donated by NBC-TV to give the GOP view of Carter's voluntary plan to hold wage increases to 7 percent next year while containing price increases below 5.75 percent through a complex price guideline program. Carter announced the plan in nationally broadcast speech Tuesday night.

All of the Republicans said the tax-cut measure Carter intends to sign soon will not mean true tax cuts because the plan will only offset increased Social Security taxes coming in 1979.

The Republicans offered no alternatives to the Carter program, which, in addition to voluntary controls on wages and prices, would provide tax rebates to workers who follow the guidelines should inflation surpass 7 percent in 1979.

KENTUCKY BUSINESS SCENE

Energy Conservation Evident Across State

The U.S. Department of Energy has reported that national energy consumption increased 7.3 percent over the past two years.

Yet a recent study by Harvard University professors shows that energy consumption has declined significantly from what it would have been, had energy prices remained static.

While some might write off these reports as another example of using statistics to prove what you want to prove, they carry a clear message: that while America must continue to be deeply concerned about energy use and availability, the country is also making very real adjustments to the new world of expensive and potentially scarce energy.

These adjustments are showing up in diverse changes of American living: a boom in sales of smaller, lighter, more efficient American-made cars

(leading to a small but growing export market in Europe, where gasoline prices reach $4 a gallon); demand for insulation materials that is outstripping the capacity of industry to produce them; government and consumer pressure on the appliance industry to develop more energy-efficient units.

Adjustments to the new style of energy-short living are showing up all across Kentucky, too.

Item: Western and middle-Tennessee Valley Authority are eligible to participate in the TVA's expanded home energy conservation programs which provide interest-free loans for such things as installation of storm windows and doors, floor insulation and weatherstripping. During the past year, about 20,000 TVA homes have had their attics insulated with similar loans.

Items: Bluegrass-area business and industry can now get free help with identifying, analyzing and implementing energy conservation and cost reduction measures, through projects funded by the state Department of Energy (managed by the University of Kentucky) and the Bluegrass Area Development District.

Item: Jefferson County has instituted a training program for engineers and architects, leading to their certification to conduct energy audits for office buildings.

Item: Kentucky companies are increasing their efforts to recycle and conserve energy. Ashland Oil, for instance, is buying waste steam from a West Virginia facility in order to use it at the Ashland refinery in Catlettsburg, Ky. — saving about 25,000 cubic feet of natural gas per hour. And General Electric is saving an estimated $51,000 a year in electricity costs at its Louisville Appliance Park by the simple installation of timers on refrigeration presses, which shut off the machines whenever they've been idle for 15 minutes.

Taken separately, none of these activities are very meaningful in the overall energy crunch. Combined with similar activities going on all over Kentucky and the nation, they are encouraging signs that America is indeed waking up to a world in which energy will in all likelihood never again be cheap and abundant.

And business and industry is getting the highest marks for accepting this reality and doing something about it. Again according to the U.S. Department of Energy, more than 3,000 industrial firms have cut their energy consumption by an average of 9.2 percent in the past six years.

Since industry uses 43 percent of all energy consumed in this country, the impact of their efforts is undeniable — and this much-maligned segment of the economy is showing that it can be one of the most responsible participants in American society.

Ky. Stocks On The Move

General market direction was sharply downward. Leading gains: Texas Gas Transmission (NYSE), to 44% from 44; Western Kentucky Gas (OTC), to 15% from 15; Liberty National Bank (OTC), to 31% from 31. Greatest declines: General Energy (OTC), to 9% from 11%; Thomas Industries (NYSE), to 11% from 12%; Jerrico (OTC), to 16% from 18%.

MIKE BARNETT, NEW SHOP OWNER

Barnett Opens Shop

Barnett's Body Shop, located on South 4th Street across from Overby Honda and owned by Mike Barnett, has been in business for two months.

The new shop owner has 12 years experience in body work — two years at two different body shops and 10 years at Parker Ford, where he was body shop manager for five years.

Barnett, 28, is a Calloway County native and is married to the former Jan Orr. They have one son, Brian, age 4.

The new shop does all body work — paint and repair — and specializes in insurance work. The shop has 1,650 square feet and five bays from which to work.

Barnett said, "I invite all my friends and acquaintances who need the service or who would like to see the new facilities to drop by the shop. I feel that we do top quality work on any make or model of car."

These adjustments are showing up in diverse changes of American living: a boom in sales of smaller, lighter, more efficient American-made cars

W. R. Tappan, chairman of the board, commented that, "The dividend declared today represents an increase to $.28 per share on an annualized basis, compared with the previous $.24 per share."

"The previously announced tentative agreement to sell the Heating and Air Conditioning Division has now been completed. The division has been sold to Smith Jones, Inc., a privately owned Minnesota corporation. It is anticipated that the transaction will result

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Brzezinski: Kremlin Target

WASHINGTON — A vicious, unprecedented Soviet propaganda campaign against Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser, has been launched on orders from Moscow by the U.S. Communist Party (CPUSA).

Evidence linking the Soviet Union to the campaign being run out of Communist party headquarters in New York City has been turned over to the White House by Justice Department investigators. Although its only possible political effect on President Carter would be to make Brzezinski impregnable, the direct linkage between Moscow and the U.S. party's attacks marks a precedence for vilification of any senior presidential aide in modern U.S.-Soviet relations.

Orders to the CPUSA are to castigate Brzezinski by pamphlets, stories in the Daily Worker and all other available means with this object: depict him as a warmonger, a zealot and a "mad dog," in the words of one official privy to the campaign.

Brzezinski, Polish by birth and the son of a pre-World War II Polish diplomat, has long been targeted by the Kremlin as Soviet enemy No. 1 within the Carter administration. His relatively hard line on Soviet adventures in Africa, together with his personal initiatives in strengthening Washington-Peking ties, are seen here as the reason for using the CPUSA as the Kremlin's instrument for undermining him.

The campaign will get nowhere. But evidence that the CPUSA will lend itself so directly to the dictate of Moscow has deeply disturbed the White House.

Exit Joe and Pat?

Two of the biggest spending cabinet members — Secretary Joseph Califano of Health, Education and Welfare and Mrs. Patricia Harris of Housing and Urban Development — will not surprise the White House if they quit early next year after their budgets are drastically cut back for fiscal year 1980.

Califano and Harris, heading the two biggest social welfare departments, are already battling budget guidelines for the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) which sharply reduce future spending in line with President Carter's drive toward a balanced budget. "They are still living in the mood of the Great Society," one administration official told us.

The showdown is expected early next year when Mr. Carter's stripped-down budget becomes a reality. Califano and Mrs. Harris will have only three choices: surrender, change the president's mind or resign. Neither is expected to surrender, nor is Mr. Carter in any mood to change his mind.

Cunning Jerry Brown

The political cunning of California's governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. was on view when he publicly called on President Carter to come west to campaign for two struggling Democratic candidates in California.

Brown seems well ahead in his own race for a second term. But Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally faces an uphill fight for reelection and Rep. Yvonne Braithwaite Burke is in a tough contest for state attorney general.

Actually, negotiations had been underway for some time between California Democratic leaders and the White House for a Carter visit just before the election. But by personally asking the president and then quietly publicizing it, the governor has forced Mr. Carter's hand. The president can scarcely decline to campaign for Dymally and Mrs. Burke, the two blacks on the state Democratic ticket. Even if Mr. Carter does come to California, Brown has it both ways. Should Dymally and Burke lose, the president will be shown to lack coattails. Should they win, Brown could take credit for having talked the president into making the trip.

Brown's ploy is all the more clever in shifting the responsibility for saving Dymally from himself to the president. The governor has been criticized for doing little or nothing to help his hand-picked running-mates.

GOP Grumbles

Grumbles among rank-and-file Republicans on Capitol Hill are increasing over the failure of Sen. Howard Baker and Rep. John Rhodes, the Senate and House minority leaders, to extract concessions from President Carter for Republican rescue missions of embattled Carter bills in the just-ended Congress.

Republican votes saved Mr. Carter time and again: aircraft sales to Saudi Arabia, Panama Canal treaties, sustaining his veto of the public works bill and others.

One senior Republican strategist told us: "If the late-Sen. Everett Dirksen (former Senate Republican leader) had been running the party, this would not have happened."

In the future, Republican operatives will make a much greater effort to obtain far more concessions from Mr. Carter for supporting his legislation than they got in the past two years.

Easterly's No-Frills Campaign

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer

BURGEN, Ky. (AP) — Tom Easterly arrived at a recent campaign appearance in Frankfort in a tow truck. While the truck was necessitated by repair-work to Easterly's car, it helped illustrate the no-frills campaign he is running for a seat in Congress.

Easterly traverses the 17 counties of the 6th Congressional District alone in his used Maverick, which replaced a blue Maverick that carried him 110,000 miles in his Congressional primary and previous races for state senate.

The 38-year-old state senator said he had hoped to keep the good luck car until after the election, but "it just lost its pickup. It wouldn't pull the hills anymore."

Easterly began his current campaign style, which concentrates on face-to-face meetings with his hoped-for constituency, more than seven years ago while laying the groundwork for his political career.

Easterly tirelessly met people and kept records of their names in building a grass roots support that helped him defeat an administration-backed candidate in the 1973 Democratic primary for state senate. He was unopposed for a second four-year term in 1977.

A Vietnam veteran who speaks several languages and attended college in Europe on a Fulbright Scholarship, Easterly immediately began expanding his base into the 6th District and was able to surprise incumbent Congressman John Breckinridge in last May's primary.

Easterly admits a traveling companion-chauffeur "costs money" and the coffers of his campaign treasury are slim compared with that of his Republican opponent and fellow state senator Larry Hopkins.

But Easterly says that is not what dictates his campaign style. "I feel it is more valuable that a lot of media exposure," he said while touring a Mercer County factory last week.

"People tend to forget the person in the ads when they see his opponent in person," Easterly said.

While Easterly, who is also running ads on radio and television, may be overstating his view, he does place heavy emphasis on the personal encounter method that has worked for him in the past.

Accompanied by a reporter, he circulated through the factory talking individually with nearly 200 workers. He handed out red, white and blue emery boards with his name on them, cards with his picture and the University of Kentucky football schedule, and brochures giving his background and letting the workers know it was his bill that lets them turn right on a red light.

Easterly's questions were largely about whether the workers knew he was running and whether they were registered to vote.

Although labeled a liberal labor candidate by Hopkins, Easterly, a former attorney for the state AFL-CIO, does not shy away from the working man.

"That charge might cost me a few votes, but it also might cost him some votes," Easterly said. "Especially if he drives them out in a block. If labor doesn't work this election, they never will. There has never been a so blatantly anti-labor candidate."

Easterly said he jumps at the chance to go to a factory that lets him visit the employees on the job. He said most don't, although many do let him meet them in the parking lot.

He said some large anti-union factories will not let him on the grounds and he must stand across the road catching workers as they arrive or leave. "You pretty much lose your effectiveness like that."

He also avoids interrupting the workers on their break. "They view that as their time and I wouldn't want to break in on it," he said. "Also, they are more free to comment when it is a one-on-one situation at their work station instead of in a cafeteria where a number of people are listening in."

Easterly said he is not bothered by his lack of large resources. The former high school football official says it is "A great challenge," and likens it to a ball game.

He said his physical stamina "depends on getting enough sleep and eating good food. If I do that, I can go on forever."

"But when it happens that I am up late and back up early the next day and miss meals, that is when it is tough," Easterly said.

Hunter Course Slated

A free hunter education course will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Nov. 2, 3 and 4 at Camp John Currie located on Highway 982 in Fairdeal off U.S. Highway 68.

The course, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, will include classroom instruction in firearm safety, sportsmanship, hunter ethics, first aid and outdoor survival.

The Saturday session will feature actual range firing and practice with both firearms and archery equipment.

Those successfully completing the course will receive safe hunter certificates valid in any of the 26 states where such certification is required. Completion of this or a similar hunter education course is also a requirement for those youngsters participating in the youth deer hunts at Land Between the Lakes. Attendance at all three sessions is required for certification.

Any person, 10 years of age or older, who is interested in the shooting sports or who wants to become a safer hunter is welcome to attend. For additional information, contact Brian R. Bullock at 753-9718.

Lynxes, which are found in the temperate and subarctic regions of the Northern Hemisphere, are agile climbers and spend a good deal of their time on the limbs of trees awaiting their prey when the weather is agreeable.

FIRST DOE — Ken Bucy of Hazel shot his first doe recently during a hunt on Land Between the Lakes. Bucy is pictured here with the deer which weighed 98 pounds.

Lakeland Outdoors

This is the time of year when outdoor writers gather for fun and for passing on tips and ideas about the peculiarities of the business. Not long ago I journeyed into Tennessee for the Tennessee Outdoor Writers annual conference, and then this past weekend I joined writers from throughout the Southeast at Barkley Lodge in Trigg County for the yearly meeting of the Southeastern Outdoor Press Association. A host of distinguished and often published writers were in attendance including Charlie Dickey, Wayne Fears, Buck Taylor, Jerry Meyer and the subject was freelance outdoor writing. Taylor talked about what it takes to make a living as a freelance writer, which he does, and he also shed some light on how a story is produced and marketed to the major outdoor magazines. Most of you reading this column probably subscribe to Outdoor Life, Field and Stream or Sports Afield, and I thought it might make interesting reading to tell how stories find their way onto those and other magazines' pages.

Many people think of outdoor writers leading glamorous lives rambling around the world sampling the best hunting and fishing. They're treated royally by guides and landowners while they collect their story material, and life is just one big happy adventure. Right? Wrong. There is a lot of travel and an amount of good treatment, but it's still work, with perhaps even more pressures and deadlines than come with ordinary desk jobs in the city.

The only way a full time outdoor writer can keep beans in the pot is by keeping a constant flow of stories in mind, in the typewriter and the mail. Most full-timers I know keep at least 40 marketable pieces, ranging from shorts to full-length features, in some stage of production at all times.

Stories start like everything else — as an idea. Writers keep idea logs, and they try to take trips where they can work on several pieces at the same time. This saves time and money. A trip to Florida could be used for stories on bass fishing the St. Johns River, camping, field testing some new equipment, a separate travel feature on the mid-Florida area, bream fishing Lake George. . . The list expands depending on how long the writer stays in the area. Rolls of color and black and white film are shot.

Trips are fun, but they're hectic. You can't afford to spend too much time on any one thing. You're a reporter, not a sportsman, and you let locals do the acting and catch the fish.

Back in the office the task of turning that newly collected material into stories comes to life. Hopefully a writer already had a couple of assignments before he went on the trip, and he bangs out these stories first. If not, he starts the process by writing a particular edition a query letter, or a letter outlining a story, and seeing if that editor is interested in the area for his magazine. Many writers send their pictures along, usually color slides and up to 40-50 per story idea.

If the editor likes the idea, he'll reply with a go-ahead "on speculation." This means the editor is in no way obligated, but if the story's a good one, he'll most likely buy it.

The writer plunges ahead, spending no more than one-two days on any feature. (You have other work piled up.) Each magazine has its own style, and the story is tailored to fit that style. It helps sales.

When the story is completed, it is packaged up and sent back to the editor with the slides, now completed with captions, and a short cover letter. Then the writer turns himself to other work and forgets the story for the three weeks-three months it usually takes editors to read the piece and pass judgement.

How much do magazines pay? That, of course, depends on the magazine. The "Big Three," named earlier, pay $600-$1000 for a major illustrated article. Smaller magazines, like Southern Outdoors, Bassmaster, Petersen's Hunting, etc., pay from $200-$400. Short features fetch anywhere from $40-$100. I can hear you now. "A grand for writing a simple fishing story? Who says this is such a tough business?" Well, consider the fact that one story in every 300 submitted to the major editors is published and fetches that price. Major magazines are flooded with stories from professionals and amateur writers, and only that occasional shot in the dark is published.

Good pictures usually make the difference! Shots must be colorful, active, inventive. . . This is the category where amateurs usually lose out. The pros know the photo tricks to get outstanding illustrations. Are many magazine pictures fakes? I'd estimate that 30-50 per cent are setups.

One good way to spot a fake from real action is to check the facial expressions of people not directly involved in what's going on. A guide in the back of a boat might not be too excited if his client is landing a stuffed or dead ten pound bass. But if that fish is real and jumping for his life, the guide's face will be as full of expression as that of the man on the fighting end of the tackle.

At the Southeastern Outdoor Press meeting, Buck Taylor talked about the rigors of the job. He described one major free-lancer who spent six days a week, 14 hours a day either writing or collecting story material. The man published frequently, a few in the biggies, and many, many more in smaller magazines. In a year's time he grossed some $22,000. Take away his expenses, and he probably could have cleared more money chopping and selling firewood.

Why then, do writers do it? That's a hard one that Buck Taylor couldn't definitely answer, and neither can I. It's just that there's a satisfaction in making it yourself, in relying on no one else, no union or friend or "playing the game to get ahead." There's a certain pleasure in competing in a tough, competitive field and in making that occasional big sale. It's good to see your work in print and to know that millions of readers will also see it.

And then there's that occasional trip where you take a little extra time, leave the camera in the tent and just enjoy yourself when you want to. Now that's luxury.

I haven't talked to anyone that has caught any big bass this month.

Several guys have hung into some heavy line stretchers but they lost them through no fault of their own.

As expensive as some of the lures are today one should really take care of them.

Take the reels from the rods and clean inside and out, wash the rods with warm soapy water, rinse and let dry. Stand or hang the rods straight so they won't get a curl or bow since most are made of fiberglass.

The Duck Call

By Charlie McKenney
Ducks Unlimited Secretary

While area duck hunters are making plans for the coming duck season, I hope they are also planning to attend the Ducks Unlimited Banquet. The Banquet this year will be held on Thursday night, November 16, starting at 6:00 p.m., at the Jaycee Center.

The list of door prizes are very impressive so anyone attending has a good chance of winning a great prize.

The main reason for the Banquet is to raise money for the National Headquarters. To raise money certain items are auctioned off each year. Some items come from the National Chapter and others from area businessmen.

Heading the list of auction items will be the DU Commemorative shotgun. This year it is an Ithaca Model 51. The beauty of this gun is hard to describe, but it has such features as middle beaded sight, gold trigger, jeweled bolt and carrier, gold filled engraving with the D.U. emblem. In addition, each gun comes with its own hard-luggage-type gun case. This beautiful shotgun is on display at Big Macs Sporting Goods out on South 12th Street. Go take a look at it. Then bring lots of money out to the Jaycee Center the night of the Banquet because it will be sold to the highest bidder. Oh Yes! The National headquarters says the bidding must start at $750.00. The local Chapter had to return the shotgun last year, so I sure hope someone in Calloway County will take the gun home with them this year.

Other auction items include the DU artist of the year painting along with several other duck and goose paintings, hand carved decoys, country hams, D.U. decantors, several dozen decoys, and a motorcycle. So bring some money and help out Ducks Unlimited.

If you have not bought your Banquet ticket yet you can get one at Uncle Lees Sporting Goods, Big Macs Sporting Goods, Triangle Inn or from Gene Starks at Starks Concrete put in the Almo area.

Duck season opens November 18th. Have you bought your 78-79 Duck Stamp yet?

May all your hunting be safe and enjoyable.

Fishing Line

them. They school more in the fall and winter months. The threadfin shad will be even more scarce. This next winter and spring so the crappie will be hungry. I think all of our game fish have gone to feeding on the sunfish as a means of survival. The sunfish that are left will be larger than normal as a direct result.

The sauger don't seem to be affected too much by the cold winter so look forward to having some warm winter days and catching a limit or two of big sauger.

Many other species are taken in the winter while fishing for sauger and it can be very exciting.

A. B. Knight said the catfish were not biting like they should for this time of the year. He is trying some other kinds of bait so maybe things will improve for him.

Watch for the results of the Murray Bass Club Steak and Beans Tournament next week.

Tornado Snap Murray Streak With 29-16 Victory

Tilghman Spoils Tiger Homecoming

Bo Reed picks up a portion of his game-high 102 yards in homecoming football action at Ty Holland Stadium Friday night. Murray High fell to 3-5 with a 29-16 loss.

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor

The game was expected to be a defensive one. So when Murray High jumped ahead of Paducah Tilghman 6-0 with less than three minutes gone in the game, Tiger Homecoming fans were delirious.

But the Tornado buckled down, using a blocked punt, a stifling defense and two second-quarter touchdowns to belt Murray 29-16 Friday at Ty Holland Stadium.

That blocked punt was a play Tilghman coach Dan Haley felt was the turning point of the contest.

Murray recovered a fumble by Tilghman's bruising, 6-3, 205-pound fullback Richard Abraham to give itself a first down on the opponents' 37-yard line. Bo Reed broke two tackles moments later to put the ball on the two, where quarterback Rich Rollins ran in on the next play to put Murray ahead 6-0 with only 2:27 gone in the game. The extra-point try was partially blocked.

After the teams traded possessions, Tilghman punter Randy Grimes angled a kick that teammates managed to down at the Murray one-yard line. The Tigers were held there, so on fourth down, Nick Swift punted.

Or at least he tried to punt. Tilghman's Earnest Carrigan barreled in to block the punt, and the Tornado recovered on the Murray eight.

Two plays later, quarterback Quentin Marshall dove in only inches away from the goal line for the score. Carrigan's kick put the visitors on top 7-6.

"That was obviously, in my mind, the turning point of the game," said Haley. That one, he said, and another big play.

The Tigers, in the process of gaining only one first down the entire first half, failed to move on their opening series of the second quarter, but Swift managed to get his punt away despite heavy pressure.

Tilghman took over on the Murray 43, and, thanks to a 15-yard gain by Lawrence "Choo Choo" Lee, moved to the 25. Grimes picked up 11 more on a reverse before Fred Matchem broke several tackles and finally found the end zone to up the Tilghman advantage to 14-6.

Only four plays later — after the Tigers netted only four yards on them — Tilghman mounted another drive, climaxed by a 34-yard touchdown pass-play from Marshall to Keith Lansden with only three seconds left in the half to give the Tornado a 15-point advantage.

"That sure changed the halftime talk," said Haley.

"We were all set to go into the dressing room ahead 14-6, but Marshall made a nice play and we had some breathing room."

If we had led only 14-6, that would have been nothing. But that extra score really made Murray play catch-up," he added.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, but a pass interference call early in the final period continued a Murray drive and gave the Tigers a first-and-goal situation at the Tilghman 10.

Tilghman was assessed with another penalty a play later to give Murray a second first down at the eight, but Bo Reed fumbled on the next play to end the rally.

Grimes, attempting a reverse for Tilghman on its first play from there, was dropped by Dave Latto in the end zone for a safety to pull the Tigers within 21-8.

The teams traded touchdowns for the final result. Matchem rambled in from three yards to give the Tornado its biggest lead, 29-8 with 3:28 left. But Murray used a halfback pass from Reed to Robin Roberts from 27 yards out for the game's final score.

"It all comes down to our mistakes in the first half," said Murray coach John Hina. "That blocked punt, the long pass just before the half; those were mistakes that ended up beating us."

Judging by statistics, Tilghman looked to be the team full of mistakes. It fumbled five times and was penalized nine times for 109 yards.

But the Tornado recovered three of its miscues, while the Tigers lost all three of their fumbles.

The loss sagged the Murray record to 3-5, breaking the Tigers' two-game win streak. Tilghman, now 4-5, owns a two-game string of its own. It defeated Madisonville 14-12 last Friday.

Reed led all rushers with 102 yards on 18 carries, but was the only Tiger back with more than five yards. Tilghman, meanwhile, was paced by Lee's 96 on 13 tries and Abraham's 44 on 11 attempts.

"Coach Hina has the misfortune of playing in the toughest district (AA)," said Haley. "There's no doubt in my mind that he has one of the best AA teams in the state. It's just unfortunate that two schools in the state (Mayfield and Heath) are also in his district."

Tilghman must face that Mayfield squad, top-ranked in Division AA and undefeated overall, Friday. The Tigers, meanwhile, close their season at Todd County Central.

Bradley Wells watches as Murray High's Tim Foster runs against Paducah Tilghman in the Tigers' Homecoming game Friday night. Murray scored first but fell 29-16.

UK Seeking To Get Back In Race Against Georgia Tonight

By CHARLES WOLFE
Associated Press Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky seeks to get back into the Southeastern Conference race tonight against SEC co-leader Georgia at Commonwealth Stadium and Wildcat Coach Fran Curci hopes history will give him a break.

"We've beaten Georgia twice in the first five years I've been here and both wins came down there in Athens where you're not supposed to win, but we've never beaten them here," Curci said.

Addressing the state meeting of Associated Press Newspapers in Kentucky here Friday, Curci said freshman quarterback — Larry McCrimmon would start for the second straight week.

McCrimmon, a strong-armed passer from Tampa, Fla., completed just three of 18 passes last week in a 21-0 loss to Louisiana State, his first collegiate start, but Curci said he would patiently help McCrimmon develop.

Junior quarterback Mike Deaton is sidelined with a shoulder injury and "Larry has got to go out there and do it," Curci said.

The Wildcats are struggling at 2-3-1 and 1-1 in the SEC and Curci conceded, "It's a frustrating position because we've got good players, but a freshman quarterback."

But he refused to blame either McCrimmon or Deaton for the Wildcats' troubles.

McCrimmon is waist-deep in a difficult learning experience, but has showed flashes of brilliance. He engineered a 24-17 comeback victory over Mississippi and slowly is earning the confidence of his teammates, which Curci said was crucial to the team's success.

"That's the crux of it. You're not going to win at any level without a quarterback," Curci said. "The offense itself has to make all the fourth-and-one and third-and-two situations. But the quarterback has to make third-and-five, third-and-eight, all the big third-down plays."

"He (McCrimmon) has a lot of confidence in himself. The team was so excited after Ole Miss because they thought he could do it and they still think he can do it. He's got all the confidence in the world, but he's got no experience."

Curci said he anticipated, McCrimmon's problems against LSU.

"It's easy to come off the bench," he said, referring to the Mississippi game. "We knew what they were doing. But when he started against LSU, he didn't know what they were going to do. He couldn't see it from the bench before he took the field."

Against the Bulldogs, 5-1 overall and 3-0 in the SEC, Kentucky will face Willie McClendon, the league's top rusher at 136.7 yards per game, and quarterback Jeff Pyburn.

Pyburn ranks only 10th among SEC passers, but Curci said he could be the key to Georgia's attack.

"Confidence is what Georgia has with Pyburn," he said. "Georgia has a freshman quarterback (Buck Belue) from Valdosta. He's a real superstar."

NEW YORK (AP) — Nat Holman, whose association with sports in Israel began in 1949, will be honored by the Wingate Institute in Israel on November 3.

The Institute will name their school for coaches and instructors after Holman, the former basketball coach at City College of New York. The school is designed to answer the need for trained personnel in the teaching and coaching professions.

Holman will attend the dedication of the Institute, the first school of its kind in Israel.

The flashlight under the blanket routine was perfect. Enough to read by without being caught. Lighting in homes today could follow the same principle. Enough lighting to get the job done, but not so much you'll get caught paying for more than you need. Your watts bear watching; so does the kid.

What Looked Like A Long Night For Arizona Not Long Enough

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It looked like a long night for Arizona at halftime, but after receiving the opening kickoff, UCLA moved 74 yards in 10 plays. James Owens capped the drive with a 3-yard touchdown run.

Tenth-ranked UCLA looked like No. 1 in rolling to a 24-0 halftime advantage over its visitors before 41,077 at the Coliseum Friday night, and a rout appeared in the making. The Bruins rolled up 297 yards in total offense to the Wildcats' 114 in the first 30 minutes.

Arizona turned things around after the intermission, scoring a pair of touchdowns and holding UCLA scoreless while gaining 235 yards to the Bruins' 128. But it wasn't enough.

The end result was a 24-14 victory for the Bruins, enabling them to remain unbeaten in Pacific-10 Conference play. But the underdog Wildcats made an impression.

"Arizona impressed me," said UCLA Coach Terry Donahue. "They are a very physical team and their running backs and quarterback were outstanding."

"In the first half, I think we played our most outstanding football of the season," added Donahue. "In the second half, however, we lost our edge emotionally."

It took the Bruins only 3:26 to take a lead they held the rest of the way. After receiving the opening kickoff, UCLA moved 74 yards in 10 plays. James Owens capped the drive with a 3-yard touchdown run.

UCLA, 5-0 in Pac-10 play and 7-1 overall, made it 14-0 early in the second quarter on a 44-yard dash by Freeman McNeil, climaxing a 91-yard, 10-play drive.

The Bruins added to their lead with a pair of scores late in the second quarter. Quarterback Rick Bashore tallied on an 8-yard run with 2:52 left before halftime. Shortly after Wildcat quarterback Jim Krohn fumbled and Jerry Robinson recovered deep in Arizona territory.

Peter Boormeester kicked a 46-yard field goal on the final play of the first half to complete the Bruins' scoring.

It was quiet until early in the fourth quarter when Arizona lost a fumble at the UCLA 8-yard line. But Krohn engineered a pair of touchdown drives after that, scoring himself on an 8-yard run and hitting Ron Beyer with a 21-yard scoring pass.

"I was pleased with the second half effort and the intensity was there," said Arizona Coach Tony Mason, whose team is 1-2 in conference play and 3-4 overall.

"In the first half we were rusty but UCLA was good. We can't leave the ball on the ground (fumble), not against a good football team," continued Mason. "They are a fine team, a class team."

"We couldn't get field position. Without field position we couldn't throw the way we would have wanted."

The Bruins rushed for 363 yards. Theotis Brown led the way with 115 yards on 21 attempts. McNeil added 104 yards on 15 carries.

Bashore completed six of nine passes for 62 yards. He went to the air just once in the second half, throwing an incomplete. The UCLA quarterback also rushed for 75 yards on 14 tries.

The top game on Saturday night's schedule is the Southwest Conference battle between ninth-ranked Arkansas and No. 11 Houston in the Astrodome.

In afternoon action, top-rated Oklahoma entertains Kansas State, runner-up Penn State visits West Virginia, third-ranked Alabama hosts Virginia Tech, No. 4 Nebraska is at home against Oklahoma State and No. 5 Maryland is at Duke.

Oklahoma, Penn State, Maryland, Navy and unranked Holy Cross — which visits Brown — are the only remaining unbeaten-untied major teams.

Rounding out the Top Ten, California is at sixth-ranked Southern Cal, Southern Methodist at No. 7 Texas and Minnesota at No. 8 Michigan. In the Second Ten, No. 12

Arizona State is at Washington, Colorado at No. 13 Missouri, No. 15 Pitt is at No. 18 Navy, No. 16 Georgia at Kentucky in a night game, No. 17 Purdue at Iowa, Miami, Fla. at No. 19 Notre Dame and No. 20 Clemson at North Carolina State. Louisiana State, ranked No. 14, is idle.

Arkansas' 11-game winning streak was snapped by Texas last week and all Coach Lou Holtz will say is that "it was a disappointing loss and we could make a lot of excuses, but we won't. Those who complain about having too many bad bounces are usually the ones who dropped the ball."

"It's up to the players how well we bounce back. I KNEW I feel a lot worse about losing to Texas this year than I did last year, but I feel we'll come back. Last year we played well against Houston, but this year we're coming back under more adverse conditions. Last year Houston wasn't near as good, didn't have any momentum, didn't have (quarterback) Danny Davis and the game was played in Little Rock."

"We knew before the season Houston would be very good. They have a very explosive offense and their defense is playing very well. They're just a much better football team than the one we played a year ago. I hope our players can go from being hunted to being the hunter. It hasn't been much fun being the hunted."

The rest of the Saturday night schedule finds North Texas State vs. Louisiana Tech in Shreveport, Tennessee-Chattanooga at McNeese State, Cincinnati at Southwestern Louisiana, Memphis State at Tulane, Villanova at Youngstown State, Arkansas State at Texas-Arlington, Fullerton State at Fresno State, Pacific at Hawaii.

The Land Bank

The American farmer builds two things better than anyone else in the world. He builds the next generation, passing along a special kind of wisdom... respect for the soil, honesty, independence, and faith in the future. And he builds his land, leaving it better than he found it. That kind of building usually requires borrowed long term capital. That's where we can help.

Every year in the United States, millions of patients turn to Doctors of Chiropractic for relief from suffering that other healing techniques have failed to provide. However, many people are not yet familiar with the place chiropractic occupies in the healing arts.

People know less about their bodies than they know about their automobiles or their TV sets. This is unfortunate because everyone should know how chiropractic can relieve pain and make sick people well, without the risks of surgery or the use of drugs. Chiropractic could add years to YOUR life!

Each week in this column we will provide information on chiropractic and its healing capabilities. For more specific information, call our office for an appointment.

Bullets Embarrassed By Golden State Friday

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

"It wasn't one of those nights," said Washington Coach Dick Motta. "It's one of those trips. I'll be glad when it ends."

Motta's Bullets were embarrassed by the Golden State Warriors 102-83 Friday night, their third loss on a West Coast road swing that ends Sunday night in Los Angeles.

The National Basketball Association game was one of two games being nationally televised, although once the outcome was determined — and it was determined early, Golden State going up by as many as 24 points in the first quarter — CBS switched almost exclusively to the Seattle-Milwaukee game.

That one went down to the wire, the Sonics winning 80-79 on Lonnie Shelton's free throw with 48 seconds to play. Seattle is now 7-0, the NBA's only unbeaten team.

In other games Friday night, the Phoenix Suns beat the Chicago Bulls 115-110 in overtime, the Indiana Pacers defeated the Denver Nuggets 112-99, the Los Angeles Lakers topped the San Diego Clippers 113-110, the Detroit Pistons edged the Kansas City Kings 107-102 and the New Jersey Nets beat Cleveland Cavaliers 123-108.

"We were a little flat against Portland, we were very flat against Seattle," said Motta, referring to Washington's losses earlier this week by scores of 104-102 and 121-92, respectively. "I thought tonight we would kick their butt but we were flat again. Two in a row is about 1 1/2 too many, and the players know that."

The Warriors took it right to the defending NBA champions, running off the game's first 12 points and building a 34-12 lead by the end of the first quarter. The catalyst was John Lucas, who quarterbacked the running game and led the cheers after each basket.

Sonics 80, Bucks 79
Shelton, scoreless until the fourth quarter, tied the game at 79 with a short jumper with 1:21 to play, then made one of two free throws for the winning point. Milwaukee had two chances to go ahead, but couldn't score either time.

The Bucks' Marques Johnson had 32 points and 14 rebounds, while Fred Brown led the Sonics with 20 points and Jack Sikma added 19 points and 13 rebounds.

Suns 115, Bulls 110, OT
Phoenix came from behind twice to beat the Bulls. The Suns were trailing 101-94 with 11:52 to go in regulation but drew even at 113-113 on Paul Westphal's 15-footer with five seconds left. Artis Gilmore scored the first five points of the overtime for Chicago, but the Pacers went ahead 111-110 on Westphal's driving layup. Baskets by Walter Davis and Westphal sealed the verdict.

Westphal scored 38 points and Davis 37.
Pacers 112, Nuggets 99
Ricky Sobers scored 21 points and backcourtmate Johnny Davis had 20 points and 11 assists as the Pacers upset Denver before a crowd of 12,469, the largest of the season at Indianapolis.

Former Pacer George McGinnis had 20 points and 16 rebounds for Denver.
Lakers 113, Clippers 101
Los Angeles, leading 96-95, reeled off 15 straight points

McLendon Leads At Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Mac McLendon appears to be on his way to his second victory on the PGA tour this year, but he isn't counting the $25,000 first prize, even with a five-stroke lead at the halfway point of the Pensacola Open.

"The way the tour is today, I don't think any lead is safe," McLendon said after shooting a five-under-par 67 Friday on the 7,133-yard Perdido Bay Country Club course for a 36-hole total of 132.

Eager young challengers Keith Fergus and D.A. Weibring agree with McLendon's assessment. They are at 137, along with Mike Reasor, who has been on the tour nine years, one less than McLendon.

"I think Mac has played fantastic," said Weibring. "He's in a good position, but we're only halfway through and there's a lot of golf left."

Corns Counters Claim That Statute In Indictment Invalid

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Franklin County Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Corns feels he has made a strong counter-argument to a claim that the state statute under which former state Finance Secretary Russell McClure was indicted is invalid.

"I feel we have made a strong case and I feel the indictment should be upheld," Corns said Friday after filing a 13-page brief in Franklin Circuit Court.

The brief claims there is a penalty provision for the law and that a one-year statute of limitations does not apply. McClure was indicted earlier this month by the Franklin County grand jury on two counts of improperly disposing of two state vehicles. The two vehicles ended up with members of the family of former state Democratic Party chairman Howard "Sonny" Hunt.

Also indicted in connection with one of the transfers was former Finance Department official Melvin Young, now an employee of the Labor Department.

Attorneys for McClure and Young last week asked Circuit Judge Squire Williams to dismiss the indictments because of technical problems with the law.

Attorney Robin Griffin claimed that through a clerical error the penalty provision had been removed. He also contended that if the statute was considered valid, it was a misdemeanor and the one-year statute of limitations had run out.

Griffin contended the penalty provision of the 37-year-old law was removed through an error in the so-called statute revisers bill in 1966. He said the penalty provision left in the law does not apply to the section under which McClure was indicted.

However, Corns argued in his brief that the statute had been re-adopted by the Legislature twice since then and it could have added a penalty if it felt the existing one did not apply.

"The fact that the exact same penalty and placement were re-enacted in 1966 and 1978 can leave no doubt of the intent of all concerned," Corns wrote. "Consequently, the penalty is valid and was lawfully enacted."

Corns also argued that under Kentucky's new Penal Code, misdemeanors are defined by the maximum penalty that may be imposed. He said anything with more than a 12-month sentence is a felony and the law in question provides up to five years in prison.

Corns said the court had to assume the Legislature knew about the law when it adopted the Penal Code and intended for the crime to be a felony.

Corns also argued that the indictment was not improperly obtained because more than one witness was before the grand jury at one time. He said the move was one of convenience to the jurors and courtesy to the witnesses and could not be grounds for dismissal of the indictment.

Idaho Editor Says Press Should Fight Courts On Its Own Terms

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — An Idaho newspaper editor says the press should fight on its own terms against court decisions adverse to its interests.

Jay Shelledy, editor of the Lewiston Morning Tribune, said Friday that the press "has been treating the courts with kid gloves" and it is time to "get a little more militant."

Shelledy was on a panel discussing "The Stanford Ruling and the Media" at the state meeting of The Associated Press Newspapers in Kentucky.

In the Stanford decision, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that warrants could be used to search newspaper offices for evidence.

A reporter's ability to promise a source confidentiality is threatened if his notes can be seized, and Shelledy said that newspapers should respond in their own way to any such searches.

Shelledy was sentenced to 30 days in jail for refusing to reveal sources for investigative stories on the Idaho Bureau of Narcotics and organized crime.

After editorial criticism and thorough coverage of judicial campaign issues, public pressure caused the judge to withdraw the sentence, Shelledy said.

"We can handle the courts our own way," he said. "The people are not against a paper giving a judge hell."

Also on the panel was U.S. Attorney Albert Jones of Louisville, who said the U.S. Justice Department is developing regulations to guide prosecutors in cases involving searches of newspaper offices.

Until now, self-restraint has been the guide, Jones said, adding that there was no record of the federal government ever having used a search warrant to enter a newspaper office.

Jon Fleischaker, a lawyer for The Courier-Journal in Louisville, said even the possibility of a search, however, weakens a reporter's pledge of confidentiality.
